Adidas AG (German pronunciation: [ˈadɪˈdas] ⓘ ⓘ, styled as adidas since 1949) ⓘ is a German multinational athletic apparel and footwear corporation headquartered in Herzogenaurach, Germany. It is the largest sportswear manufacturer in Europe, and the second largest in the world, after Nike. ⓘ It is the holding company for the Adidas Group, which also owns an 8.33% stake in the football club Bayern Munich, and Runtastic fitness technology company. Adidas's revenue for 2024 was listed at €23 billion. ⓘ Adidas is known for its brand image, extensive long origin history for participating in sponsoring athletics, and gear in the FIFA World Cup series. The brand is also recognized for performance innovation of their shoes with ties within sports culture and durability with their focus of sport shoes, clothing, backpacks, and other accessories.

The company was started by Adolf Dassler in his mother's house. He was joined by his elder brother Rudolf in 1924 under the name Gebrüder Dassler Schuhfabrik ("Dassler Brothers Shoe Factory"). Dassler assisted in the development of spiked running shoes (spikes) for multiple athletic events. To enhance the quality of spiked athletic footwear, he transitioned from a previous model of heavy metal spikes to utilizing canvas and rubber. Dassler persuaded U.S. sprinter Jesse Owens to use his handmade spikes at the 1936 Summer Olympics. In 1949, following a breakdown in the relationship between the brothers, Adolf created Adidas and Rudolf established Puma, which became Adidas's business rival. ⓘ

The three stripes are Adidas's identity mark, having been used on the company's clothing and shoe designs as a marketing aid. The branding, which Adidas bought in 1952 from Finnish sports company Karhu Sports for the equivalent of €1,600 and two bottles of whiskey, ⓘ became so successful that Dassler described Adidas as "The three stripes company". ⓘ

The most successful shoe from Adidas is the "Samba", due to its retro design and its versatility. ⓘ
